The World PEAS CSA is a program of the New Entry Sustainable Farming Project, sponsored by Community Teamwork, Inc. and Tufts University's Friedman School. New Entry provides multi-cultural, beginning farmers with business training, access to land and farm equipment, organic production training and materials, marketing assistance, and continued guidance to start and sustain their farm businesses.

Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) connects conscientious consumers
seeking high quality, sustainably grown food with
the farmers who produce
it. CSA members receive produce fresh from the farm while supporting the local farmers in their community.

A World PEAS share is...

Good for you and the environment. Our produce is grown locally and harvested fresh, within hours of pick-up. World PEAS farmers use organic and sustainable growing practices. We source additional fruits and vegetables from farms within 100 miles of Boston that use certified organic practices as well as farms that use integrated pest management.

Convenient. Along with your vegetables and fruit each week, your membership in the World PEAS CSA includes a newsletter with crop storage advice and recipes for that week's vegetables. You can pick up your share at one of several locations in the greater Lowell and Boston areas. If you are interested in having shares delivered to your town, inquire about coordinating a distribution site.

Socially Just. The World PEAS Cooperative is a network of small-scale and beginning farmers from North America, Africa, Asia and the Caribbean who manage small farms near Lowell as part of the New Entry Sustainable Farming Project. Many of these farmers are economically and socially disadvantaged. By buying a farm share with the World PEAS CSA, you will get fresh, local, healthful produce, while directly supporting the next generation of multi-cultural farmers.

Share options

A World PEAS CSA share combines a selection of more than 70 locally-grown traditional and ethnic vegetables with seasonal berries, melons, tree fruit and more. Our farm share is as diverse as the farmers who produce it.

Large Shares include enough vegetables and fruit each week to feed a family of four or five. 18 Distributions, June to October.....$705

A limited number of Small Shares include enough vegetables and fruit each week to feed two adults. 18 Distributions, June to October.....$465

A separate Extended Season Share offers cold- hardy vegetables and storage crops through Thanksgiving. 3 Distributions, October to November.....$125

When you join the World PEAS CSA, in addition to getting fresh, healthy produce, you are investing in the New Entry Sustainable Farming Project's training, support, and technical assistance for beginning, immigrant, and refugee farmers. As partners in our work to strengthen the local food system, you are welcome to attend New Entry field trainings, farm tours, and events.
